1. [REDACTED] Called Norm Cornish, Staff Director, House Government Operations Subcommittee on Foreign Operations and Government Information, and discussed the vote in the House yesterday passing S. 3418, the Senate privacy bill, and sending it back to the Senate with the text of the House bill, H.R. 16373, substituted. I advised him that OMB called us last night alerting us that we would be receiving the latest compromise bill version for comment either today or tomorrow before it is submitted to the Congress for a vote. Cornish explained that when the compromise bill is agreed upon the Senate managers of S. 3418 will then amend the bill to conform it to the compromise version. The measure will then be voted on in the Senate and go back to the House for a final vote. This will clear it for submission to the President. Cornish added that he doubts OMB can circulate a compromise of the bill since they will not have a final version until later today or tomorrow. He again assured me that the Agency exemption is unchanged and as stated in H.R. 16373. I stressed that we would most appreciate reviewing a Committee copy if time does not permit circulation by OMB.

25X1 5. [REDACTED] Together with Mr. Cary met with Jack Brady, House Foreign Affairs Committee staff, and reviewed with him Agency problems concerning section 660 of the Foreign Assistance Act and left with Brady a corrected copy of the proposed subsection (c) concerning protection of information; possible language for the conference report to be used as a fallback in the event that subsection (c) is not accepted; and a copy of the Zablocki amendments to the Bolling/Hansen resolution adopted 8 October by the House of Representatives concerning House Foreign Affairs Committee oversight over intelligence activities relating to foreign policy.

25X1 6. [REDACTED] After the completion of the briefing before the Subcommittee on National Security Policy and Scientific Developments, House Foreign Affairs Committee, confirmed with Chairman Clement J. Zablocki (D., Wis.) the fact that the reporter's notes, transcription and return of the transcripts to the Agency would be handled under Agency security controls and the transcripts will be retained by the Agency subject to call by the Chairman. Chairman Zablocki thought this was excellent.

25X1 7. [REDACTED] Called Paul Corwin in the office of Senator James L. Buckley (R., N. Y.) and discussed the Senator's amendment to limit access to educational records. See Memorandum for the Record.

25X1 8. [REDACTED] Accompanied Carl Duckett, DDS&T, to a briefing of the Subcommittee on National Security Policy and Scientific Developments of House Foreign Affairs, on SALT and related subjects. See Memo for Record.

25X1 9. [REDACTED] Bob Hull, State Department, called to discuss the status of the legislation eliminating the Federal tax exemption of Governmental allowances (H. R. 17488). He agreed even though the issue was dead this year, we should be working out positions to assure that the matter was not reported during the next Congress without due consideration of the merits. I informed Hull that the Director has, in a letter, expressed his concern to the Director of OMB, the Secretary of State and the Secretary of the Treasury.

Sam Goldberg, State Department, 25X1

returned my call of yesterday concerning developments in conference committee on the Foreign Assistance Act [REDACTED]

11. [REDACTED]

Bud McFarlane, NSC staff, called reporting that Everett Bierman, staff assistant on the Foreign Affairs Committee, will be glad to work with the Agency on its problems under the pending Foreign Assistance Act. I told McFarlane that Mr. Cary was then on the Hill working on this very problem and reviewed with him our proposal including colloquy, conference statement, and Presidential statement upon signing and several of the technical amendments including a new subsection to the provision limiting intelligence activities which could be used to safeguard and control access to the sensitive information covered, including override of House Rule XI, Clause 27(c) granting members access to all committee records. McFarlane was concerned lest we do nothing which would result in a backlash on the floor against the Foreign Assistance Act and I assured him that we were working with Chairman Thomas Morgan, House Foreign Affairs Committee, Representatives Clement Zablocki (D., Wis.), Peter Frelinghuysen (R., N.J.), and on the Senate side, Senator Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.) and even Senator Harold Hughes (D., Iowa), who originally proposed the provision, were concerned with the security aspects. I told McFarlane that the Director had called Senator Humphrey and received assurances in this respect and also has a call into Chairman Thomas Morgan, House Foreign Affairs Committee, as well. McFarlane said that having these members involved should eliminate any possibility of backlash.

Suggested Insert, Section (c):

"(c) any and all information possessed by committees pursuant to the provisions of subsection (a) of this section shall be kept under such security safeguards as the Chairmen and ranking minority members of such committees assembled shall by majority assent approve."

Recommended Statement for Conference Report - Foreign Aid Bill

Section 660/661

The conferees wish to emphasize the concern expressed during debate on this provision with respect to the sensitive nature of the information involved. They wish to make it clear that it is the intention of this section to give broad latitude with respect to the form in which these reports will be made and to protect the information with the Congress. This provision can be effective only if the utmost discretion is shown on the part of the Congress in maintaining the confidentiality of the information. Those reports will be submitted to the committees of Congress having jurisdiction to monitor and review the intelligence activities of the United States Government. Further, it is not intended that this section either establish or extend the jurisdiction of any congressional committee beyond that already provided.
